Plaintiff,

vs.

Docket No.: 08-CIV-5777
(PAC)

NEW YORK POST, NEW YORK
DAILY NEWS, ET AL.,
Defendants.

OPPOSITION TO MOTION TO DISMISS AND MEMORANDUM OF LAW

1. The plaintiff relies on the “factual and procedural background” instilled in defendants’ memorandum of law. Except those facts that differ in his own memorandum of law. Plaintiff relies on 28 USC 1343 (1)(2) inter alia

2. In the affidavit of Anne B. Carroll (December 8, 2009), January 6, 2010 (hereinafter Carroll affidavit) the defendant concedes the Daily News, L.P. is a Delaware corporation and that they claim that their principal place of business is located in New York, New York. Exhibit D shows numerous articles by the “Post,” “Daily News,” and other out of state agencies that got their stories from defendants and posted them on the internet.

3. Plaintiff asserts that the Daily News is a multi-state business, as it sells newspapers via subscription and internet nationally to hundreds of buyers. Evidence will prove that the Daily News sells its stories to individuals and other businesses in the media industry for their use as well. The Daily News allowed stories and news articles to be reprinted by other interstate news agencies and thus is a business entity with the multi-state distribution and primarily does business via the internet with out-of-state individuals and businesses.

POINT 1. PLAINTIFF'S COMPLAINT CONFORMS TO FED. R. CIV.
8(a)(2) AND 8(f)

The defendants' heavy reliance on Bell Atlantic v. Twombly, 550 US 544 (2007) is misplaced as it relates to the instant complaint.

In Ericson v. Pardus, 127 S.Ct. 2197 (2007), the court stated:

"The court of appeals departure from the liberal pleading standard set forth in Rule 8(a)(2) is even more pronounced in this particular case because petitioner has been proceeding from the litigation outset without counsel." A document filed pro se is to be liberally construed. Estelle, 429 US at 106, and a "pro se complaint however artfully pleaded, must be held to less stringent standards than formal pleadings drafted by lawyers."

The Ericson decision was issued after Bell Atlantic Corp. and is cited by the Supreme Court. The defendants' arguments in the brief would demand plaintiff reach a higher pleading standard than is required by Ericson and established in Haines v. Kerner, 404 US 519 (1972), see Philips v. Girdich, 408 F.3d 124 (2nd Cir. 2005). Moreover, the Ericson court held that in a complaint, specific facts are not necessary; the statement need only give the defendant fair notice of what the ... claim is and the grounds upon which it rests." Id. Ericson. Plaintiff has done that in the complaint, by attributing specific articles to particular staff letters with specificity. The complaint is enough to give the defendant fair notice of what the claim is and the grounds upon which it rests. Moreover, Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(f) requires that "all pleadings shall be so construed as to do substantial justice.” Thus the complaint should have been deemed sufficient in all respects and defendants’ motion denied in its entirety.

POINT 2: PLAINTIFF HAS ADEQUATELY ALLEGED DIVERSITY OF CITIZENSHIP

The defendants the Daily News, L.P., seek to evade liability from various torts in violation of the plaintiff’s statutory and constitutional rights, claiming there is no diversity of citizenship. This argument lacks merit and should be denied.

The plaintiff no longer lives in New York and has made his house in Delaware via his brother, that is where he will reside upon his release from prison. Moreover, pursuant to New York Civil Rights Law 79, plaintiff’s civil rights are suspended during the term of incarceration, including the right to file suit, see New York Civ. R. law 79, making federal court the proper forum.

Nonetheless, the defendants are multi-state corporations, in essence, the defendants have newspapers and have subscriptions not only to New York but also to California, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, that plaintiff specifically knows of. Also, both the Daily News and the New York Post have internet subscribers who are national and international. More essential, it is that the specific articles in question (from both the Daily News and New York Post) were sold to subscribers nationally and provided to other news agencies who use them on a national level.

Plaintiff posits that pursuant to Title 28 USC Section 1391 applies as well as 28 USC Section 1331 in that the defendants violated interstate commerce, ^{Via} ~~the~~ torts and constitution deprivations against the plaintiff.

The New York Post has a California distributor Mader News, Inc. and is incorporated under the laws of the state of Delaware (see Metcalf affidavit, NYP motion to dismiss) and distributes these papers in New York and various other states as alleged above.

The Daily News is incorporated under the laws of Delaware and sells to subscribers in various states including New York. Both corporations' "principal place of business" is not merely where they have offices or sell the most newspapers, rather it is wherever they have a clientele and a group of subscribers. See Title 28 USC Section 1332(1) ^{1369 (2)} "a corporation shall be deemed to be a citizen of any state by which it has been incorporated and of the state where it has its principal place of business." Establishing a distributorship in other states, as well as having regular subscribers in various states and internet subscribers nationally and internationally, any newspaper should expect to be held liable in any foreign state where their conduct has affected. See Gordy v. Daily News L.P., 95 F.3d 829 (9th Circuit 1996) (a "foreign act with forum affects can confer jurisdiction over a defendant who has never physically entered the forum" where the "touchtone is where the defendant's conduct and connection with the foreign state such that he should reasonably anticipate being hailed into court there.")

Even if plaintiff is deemed a citizen of New York, diversity is complete since defendants' "primary place of business is a multi-state and jurisdiction has been found against these defendants in other forums." See Gordy v. Daily News, and Cochran v. N.Y.P. Holdings, Inc., 58 F.Supp.2d 1113 (C.D. Circuit 1998) (purposeful avilment may consist simply of "mailing to regular subscribers...even though few because that activity is not random or fortuitous and is not even necessarily isolated.") In sum, defendants' primary place of business is national, and therefore plaintiff may seek redress in any appropriate forum. In this case, New York because the defamatory statements, articles, statutory and constitutional violations had the greatest impact on plaintiff's previous domicile and community.

POINT 3. PLAINTIFF HAS ADEQUATELY STATED CLAIMS VIA 42 USC 1985, 1986 AND BIVENS V. SIX UNKNOWN AGENTS, 403 US 388 (1971)

Plaintiff at page 2, part 4 of the complaint alleges a conspiracy between BOP staff informants and New York Post and Daily News defendants, specifically plaintiff alleges that there was a "meeting of the minds" between the reporters and the BOP staff. Furthermore, the plaintiff established that the BOP staff provided knowingly false information to said reporters, and said reporters used said information with the deliberate reckless disregard to the falsehood of said information. (See part 4 in claim 3 of the complaint and claim 7). Plaintiff was denied equal protection of the laws as stated in the complaint in that he was subjected to gender and race discrimination. Specifically, plaintiff states in claim 7 of the complaint,

MDC
 “In fact when an ~~XXXX~~ lieutenant had been arrested for sexually abusing a female prisoner, neither the Post or Daily News printed her name, published her picture or talked and printed articles about her past sexual relationship or any other particulars.”

This is no more than sufficient to state a claim under 42 USC Section 1985, moreover it suffices to state a cause of action via Bivens, for a violation of the Eighth, and Fifth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. In that, defendants have failed to respond to the allegations in the complaint that the BOP employees acted as informants and conspired with the Daily News and New York Post ~~reporters~~ ^{writers} providing them with intentionally false details regarding the plaintiff. (See complaint at claim 3 and 7). The defendants do not respond nor challenge the liability under Bivens, i.e. their actions of conspiring ^{with} the BOP employees who are subject to Bivens' jurisdiction, puts their actions under such jurisdiction as well. And the complaint clearly makes out a Bivens complaint against said officers for violations of his constitutional rights via the Fifth and Eighth Amendments. See claim 4 where the plaintiff specifically stated what the BOP informants and New York Post reporters did in collusion with one another, as stated in claim 3 of the complaint “the Post reporters do not work in the BOP and could only know the condition of plaintiff's suicide watch cell, if they had been told by someone working on the inside.” Cf. Ericson Defendants committed the over acts by publishing repeated and numerous articles in its newspapers, on the internet, and allowing others to utilize said articles as well.

The plaintiff was denied equal protection of the law when he was subjected to racial discrimination, as stated in the complaint at claim 7. See Philip v. University of Rochester, 316 F.3d 291 (2nd Cir. 2003) and contrary to the Daily News, claimed ignorance, e.g. “and the Daily News is aware of no authority that being of such masculine sex qualifies an individual for protected status”, at page 6 of the Daily News memo of law. Many District Courts have recognized gender discrimination as qualifying a person as within a protected class. The court in Kaufman v. Maxim Health Care Services, 2006 US Dist. Nexis, 47514 (E.D. N.Y. July 13, 2006) stated:

“A broad reading of title VII’s ‘agreed person’ language and corresponding language in Section 1981 and the NYHRL is consistent with the purpose and intent of the statutes. Moreover, there is certainly a public interest in preventing the continuation of racial and gender discrimination by broadly reading such language to include these claims.”

See also Brennan v. City of White Plains, 67 F.Supp.2d 362 (gender discrimination); Johnson v. Conn. Department of Corrections, 382 F.Supp.2d 326 (2005); Henderson v. GE, 469 F.Supp.2d 2 (December 8, 2006). As asserted in the complaint, these newspapers engage in purposeful gender discrimination when they published petitioner’s name, mental health history, alleged violent conduct in and out of prison, and alleged prior sexual relationships. Without knowing a specific section, plaintiff is certain he has a right not to have his alleged mental health history revealed without his consent on a national level.

So although plaintiff's complaint may not reach the expertise of some attorneys, it is more than adequate for a personal litigant who is without resources. See McEachin v. McGinnis, 357 F.3d 197 (2nd Circuit 2004) ("The complaints of pro se must be interpreted as raising the strongest arguments they suggest"). Neither Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 US 544 (2007) nor Ascroft v. Iqbal, 129 F.Ct. 1937 (2009) overruled this principal. The defendant's reliance on the Peasis v. New York City Police Department, (Docket No. 07-CV3904) 2008W.~~FL~~3876075 (Eastern District of New York (August 18, 2008)) is ridiculous and inapplicable because most of the complaint deemed untimely; and was based on an issuance of a single parking ticket. Jurisdiction is also found pursuant 28 USC 1343 (1)(2)

With regard to defendants' memo of law part 4, page 10, plaintiff would request counsel be appointed. Plaintiff is a federal prisoner and the law library does not provide any state statutes or case citations so that plaintiff has no ability to research and mount an accurate response to defendants' position. Just from reading the defendants' brief, plaintiff is sure that their stance is not a correct interpretation of New York State law. Defendant has taken the position ~~and~~ claim that they are able to print whatever they deem newsworthy regardless of the voracity and there is no judicial redress as if they have impunity. They cite a number of case on which on the surface appear to support their position. Plaintiff's having been involved in numerous litigation knows that there is always at least two positions to every one case ... the correct one and the one defendant such as these posit upon the courts Thus, because of the complexity of the issues involved, in plaintiff's inability to effectually respond to part 4 of defendants' memorandum of law, the plaintiff requests counsel be appointed so that there is no miscarriage of justice. See Hendricks v. Coughlin, 114 F.3d 390 (2nd Cir. 1997). Pursuant to Title 28 USC Section 1915(e)(1), plaintiff moves for an order appointing counsel to represent him in the issues raised in part 4 of the defendants' memorandum of law as plaintiff cannot respond affectively and plaintiff is unable to afford counsel. A trial in this case would likely involve conflicting testimony, and counsel will better enable plaintiff to present evidence and cross-examine witnesses. As stated above in the BOP, there are no state cases or statutes so that plaintiff has no ability to litigate and respond to defendants' arguments, so plaintiff will ask this Honorable

Court to appoint counsel. Further, Plaintiff would request the court hold its decision in abeyance until the Supreme court decides Freind v. Hertz corp., (2008 CA9 Cal.) 297 Fed. Appx. 690 cert. gr. (US) 129 S.Ct. 2766. The question Presented in said case addresses diversity of citizenship under 28 USC 1332, and whether a court may properly disregard nationwide corporations headquarters. Plaintiff would like to Supplement his brief after said decision.

WHEREFORE, the plaintiff respectfully prays that this Honorable Court will grant the relief presented herein.

Done this 1 day of ~~February~~^{April}, 2010.

'BLOOD' LUST OF SEX SHRINK

CELL MATE: Magdalena Sanchez wrote a judge a letter (below) trying to cut the 85-year sentence of her alleged lover.

Scary jail gang-banger

EXCLUSIVE

By JANA WINTER, BRUCE FURMAN, STEFANIE COHEN and JEANE MacINTOSH

The mystery inmate who had an affair with a stunning prison shrink is a violent, abusive, twice-convicted felon who is a member of the Bloods gang. The Post has learned.

And psychologist Magdalena Sanchez kept her lover, Demetrius Hill, on suicide watch so they could have sex in private whenever she wanted, a source close to the case said yesterday.

"She kept him on suicide watch so she could have exclusive access to him," the source said.

Sanchez, 35, was indicted last week for allegedly having cell-block romps with Hill, 28, between September 2005 and February 2006 and lying about it.

She is out on bail and living on the Upper West Side with her hubby, finance whiz Josh Spitz.

Court records reveal that just weeks before authorities discovered the illicit affair between Sanchez and Hill, she wrote a Brooklyn federal judge pleading that FLASHBACK: How The Post told the story Saturday.

Hill be sprung from prison.

She was trying to convince Judge Denis Hurley — who was about to sentence Hill for robbery and gun possession — that the four years Hill served before his conviction were "punishment enough for his acts."

"It would be a shame for someone like Demetrius to [be] robbed of the opportunity to have a 'normal' life," Sanchez said in the March 20, 2006, letter.

Hill, who was facing 85 years, was sentenced only to 20 years, but not because of Sanchez's efforts. Court records reveal his lawyer managed to get Hurley to throw out many of the charges on jurisdictional grounds.

Hill was moved to a federal prison in West Virginia.

Hill was arrested in February 2002 and charged with robbing Nassau County drug dealers with a BB gun and a .25-caliber pistol.

Convicted in February 2005, Hill — who had previously done time for attempted robbery — was awaiting sentencing at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn when he allegedly began his fling with Sanchez.

The pair could hook up easily because Hill was in a special "suicide cell," sources said.

"I saw her come in late at night. I know they were alone for many, many hours at a time; sometimes the whole night," recalled a retired officer, who said he was on duty when Sanchez made her house calls.

"She wore very tight, enticing clothes — like a tight, low-cut, short, red dress and very high heels that would click up and down the empty halls," he said. "She also wore pants so tight you can see what's in her pockets."

Dear Judge Hurley:

I am writing on behalf of Demetrius Hill ...

When one considers everything Demetrius has faced in his mere 27 years of life, it is shocking that he is still alive and that he's not charged with more serious, heinous, and violent crimes than "robbing drug dealers with a BB gun" ...

In addition to this, Demetrius has friends like me who are willing to help and support him in the reintegration into society.

Respectfully,

Magdalena Sanchez, Ph.D.

Several areas of the federal pen are camera-free, including the suicide cells, where Hill was sent after swallowing a razor blade in a purported attempt to kill himself, the ex-guard said.

While Hill was on suicide watch, he was put in a padded cell and stripped naked, with only a cover-up apron for clothing.

"They are watched 24 hours a day by a guard. But if a psychologist comes in — like Sanchez did — and says, 'I'd like to meet with my patient,' the guard has to go," the former guard said.

Court records describe Hill as a violent, uncontrollable inmate who throws feces and urine at guards.

"He was very violent — she tamed him," the ex-worker said.

Despite his proclivity for violence, Hill was regarded — even by prosecutors and his jailers — as extremely intelligent, court papers show. He represented himself during much of his robbery case, quoting Cicero and the Old Testament in his legal briefs.

Hill, described by a source as "charming enough to figure out how to seduce half the world," seems to have a thing for women who hold powerful prison positions, court records show.

Before Sanchez and between prison stints, he allegedly had an affair with a Nassau County correction officer, Cynthia Plummer, who allegedly provided the car for his robbery spree.

Like Sanchez, Plummer was indicted for lying about her relationship with Hill and it cost her a $70,000-a-year job. The charges were later dropped.

Plummer yesterday denied knowing Hill.

Hill's mother, Ruth Crumpton, said yesterday she was "not surprised" to hear her son had a relationship with Sanchez.

"He is a Romeo," she told The Post as she made dinner in her Elmont, L.I., home. "He's 'a very manipulative young man.'"

MY LITTLE TONY

PHYSICAL THERAPY:

Shrink-sex son like Soprano, mom says

By KIERAN CROWLEY,
JEANE MacINTOSH
and STEFANIE COHEN

The mother of a Long Island man who had a jailhouse affair with his sexy, married shrink said the two are equally culpable for their antics — calling the psychologist a responsible adult and comparing her son to Tony Soprano.

Remember the Sopranos — he was his psychiatrist,” Ruth Crumpton told The Post from her Elmont home when asked about her son Demetrius Hill’s tryst with prison shrink Magdalena Sanchez.

She should be more mature and responsible, but he too was arming,” Crumpton said, but led her son a “manipulative angry young man.

I can believe he had a relationship with this woman and manipulated her into doing whatever,” she said.

That said, she holds no ill will toward Sanchez, 35, who made a disgraced departure from Brooklyn’s Metropolitan Detention Center in February 2006, a month after her tryst with Hill, 28, ended.

“I hope her career won’t be totally ruined,” she said. “All I can say to her is to get past it. It’s not all her fault, it’s not all his fault. You have to be responsible for your behavior. She’s an adult.”

In a strange twist to the sordid tale, court records reveal that the affair would never have occurred if a federal judge followed the advice of MDC warden Paul Laird, who warned that Hill was a problem inmate during his first stint at the jail.

dent reports from January 2003 until he transferred to a facility in Lewisburg, Pa., in July 2005, are claims that he interfered with security devices, threatened bodily harm, indecently exposed himself, engaged in a sexual act, committed assault and displayed “insolence toward staff and disruptive conduct.”

Hill “jeopardized the safety of the staff inmates and the overall running of the institution,” the report said.

Hill argued that he was too far from his lawyer and was transferred a month later.

Aside from the affair, Hill was also accused of harassing a paralegal who refused to work with him.

Hill, who spent much of his time at MDC on suicide watch, comes from a troubled past that began when he was born to Crumpton, a

According to court records, he was placed in foster care and endured years of physical abuse “perpetrated by Mrs. Hill [Crumpton] and her various boyfriends.”

He was raised in an environment of “pure destitution” in homes “infested with rats and roaches.”

In a recent letter to Crumpton, Hill lamented about their strained relationship.

“I guess it could be said you were my first heartbreak,” he said in a hand-written, two-page letter dated March 19, 2007.

“Although unbroken, I’m in constant pain. I hate these pigs, I hate this life. I’m consumed by hate,” he wrote.

Sanchez remains free on $100,000 bail. Her next court date is May 9.

ONE 'SHIFT'Y PRISONER -- 'SEX TOY' JAILBIRD FLIES TO DIFFERENT CAGES

JEANE MacINTOSH

The convicted felon allegedly seduced by sexy New York jailhouse shrink Magdalena Sanchez likely hasn't had time to strike up another prison liaison - he's been sent to five federal pens in the past 14 weeks, The Post has learned.

Purported prison plaything Demetrius Hill, 28, has racked up thousands of air miles - and an estimated taxpayer-funded bill of tens of thousands of dollars for jail transfers - since The Post identified him in the wake of Sanchez's April 2 indictment on charges she had cellblock romps with Hill, then lied about the illicit trysts to authorities.

"I'd say it's unusual," observed a Bureau of Prisons source, when asked about Hill's federal frequent-flier status.

Noted another, "It seems excessive - what did this guy do, again?"

Hill, a reputed Bloods gang member doing 20 years on a drug and firearms conviction, was jailed at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn in September 2005.

That's when, investigators said, he and Sanchez, 35, who worked for the federal Bureau of Prisons, began a "sexual affair" that culminated in her February 2006 resignation from the $70,000-a-year post.

By the time Sanchez, who is married to a wealthy Wall Street banker, was arrested in April 2007, Hill had been moved to the Hazelton penitentiary in West Virginia.

In May, he was transferred to the federal lockup in Oklahoma City and then on to Terre Haute, Ind., where he stayed several weeks. By early July, Hill had been relocated to the pen in Atlanta. On July 18, he was transferred to the Big Sandy federal lockup, in Inez, Ky.

in Hill's solitary-confinement cell - Hill had been cited several times for disruptive and threatening behavior in jail.

But, according to a Bureau of Prisons source, bad behavior alone would not likely account for Hill's recent whirlwind prison tour.

Citing Hill's privacy, bureau spokeswoman Felecia Ponce declined to comment on the transfers.

Ponce said the bureau doesn't keep transfer statistics or figures on the costs of moving inmates, and referred calls to the U.S. Marshals Service.

That agency moved 83,000 prisoners for the Bureau of Prisons last year. While it doesn't tally the average overall cost of an inmate transfer, it does keep track of transport costs.

In 2007, the cost - per hour, per inmate - ranged from $5,800 to $10,000, depending on the size of the plane.

On the move

Prisoner Demetrius Hill has been racking up frequent-flier miles on the taxpayers' dime since being transferred out of the federal lockup in Brooklyn. Here are the federal penitentiaries where he's been shipped:

- * U.S. Penitentiary Hazelton (Bruceton Mills, W.Va.); moved mid-April
- * Oklahoma City Federal Transfer Center; moved early May
- * USP Terre Haute (Indiana); moved late May
- * USP Atlanta; moved late June
- * USP Big Sandy (Inez, Ky.); moved mid-July

September 2, 2007 — The Don Juan con who allegedly carried on a jailhouse affair with his sultry prison shrink said she's "beautiful on the inside and the outside" - but they never had sex.

Demetrius Hill, in his first interview since the prison-sex scandal exploded in April, told The Post that Magdalena Sanchez was his confidante, defender and more than a friend - but never a lover.

"It's very rare that you find people that are beautiful on the inside and the outside," Hill, 28, said of the 35-year-old psychologist.

"I was facing 100 years [in prison] for robbing drug dealers," Hill said. "She helped me deal with a lot of things.

"A friend is something that's superficial," said Hill, describing his relationship with Sanchez as "beyond that."

But he maintained that their intimacy was never physical - and denied ratting her out to authorities.

"I never reported anything, of course not," he said. "I never would have."

Hill, speaking by phone from the Big Sandy penitentiary in Inez, Ky., said prosecutors trumped up federal charges that the married, Upper West Side beauty sexually abused him during an affair that began in Brooklyn's Metropolitan Detention Center in September 2005.

Sanchez resigned from her $70,000-a-year federal Bureau of Prisons gig in February 2006. She was charged in April 2007.

When informed by phone yesterday of her alleged lover's exonerating statements, Sanchez reacted with stunned silence. When pressed for comment, she said, "Thank you for telling me," and hung up.

Sources said Sanchez, often while wearing sexy clothes, would pay off-hour visits to Hill in a private suicide-watch holding area. Another source claimed to have witnessed Sanchez, during day visits, sitting in a chair next to Hill's cell door and whispering through the food slot.

Sanchez faces charges of sexual abuse of a ward in her custody and making false statements to federal agents. The case is due back in Brooklyn federal court Sept. 12.

Hill - who claims he is about to be transferred to his sixth federal prison since April 2, when The Post first identified him as the apparent object of Sanchez's affections - said prosecutors have no case.

"She did absolutely nothing wrong," he said. "Her only real crime was trying to befriend and help someone."

The U.S. Attorney's Office declined to comment, and Sanchez's attorney, Loretta Lynch, did not return calls for comment.

In March 2006, Sanchez wrote a letter to a Brooklyn federal judge about to sentence Hill for robbery and gun possession, saying he should be set free.

"It would be a shame for someone like Demetrius to [be] robbed of the opportunity to have a normal life," Sanchez wrote.

A reputed Bloods gang member serving 20 years on a drug and firearms conviction, Hill once threatened to kill his mother, Ruth Crumpton. In 2002, he falsely accused his younger brother of owning a gun cops found in their car in The Bronx.

Sanchez, 35, is married, has a Ph.D. and worked for the NYPD before landing a job with the Bureau of Prisons. She admitted she lied to investigators when she originally denied having sex with the inmate.

Prosecutors came up empty for DNA evidence at the scene of the crime in Sanchez's office at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn, but were ready to play jailhouse tapes of the sexy shrink having steamy telephone conversations with Hill, a reputed Bloods gang member.

Hoboken AI- I hear & understand what you're saying, & I'm not too far from fully agreeing w/you b/c of this particular cretin but, prisoners DO have certain rights in addition to human rights (mostly dealing w/treatment & punishment). There's whole list of rights covered under a Fed law (can't remember right now). Prisons & jails ain't what was portrayed by Hollywood in the '30s, '40s, '50s & '60s; times change.

Sorry to disagree with you babydoll32720 but incidences of people in authority having relationships with inmates is not just due to a person being "weak," it is due to a fundamental personality defect or flaw apparent even in supposedly educated people. And for you to cite all of your experiences as a prison guard and then suggest that rockbeach should be able to find a good man is irrelevant to the topic, and proves that you don't have to be a doctor or scientist to be a prison guard.

This guy must be an idiot. Bad enough he's doing 20 for weapons related crimes. Now, after getting some while incarcerated he wants to dime the women out. I bet he'll be the target of all C.O.'s from now on. My advice people? STAY OUT OF JAIL!

To babydoll32720; 3 things: 1. Just as a rose by any other name is a rose, a prison guard or jail guard is a prison guard or a jail guard, and you are what you are. 2. You do not work as a prison or jail guard for me; I am not an inmate, nor am I incarcerated. You do what you do in order to receive a regular paycheck and benefits, to buy food, pay rent, buy things for your family, pay taxes, so don't get it twisted, you are not putting yourself on the line for me, I don't even know you; besides, I think that you have confused prison guards with police officers or law enforcement personnel. 3. I am an US Air Force Combat Veteran, raised in some of the roughest areas or Brooklyn; if there is anything that you can do so I can sleep, believe me you protecting or providing public safety for me is not one of them.

I lied about jailhouse sex, says shrink

BY JOHN MARZULLI
DAILY NEWS STAFF WRITER

Published: March 28, 2008, 10:41 AM

A former prison psychologist who had sex romps with an inmate she was supposed to be treating Friday pleaded guilty to lying about them.

Federal prosecutors were ready to play tapes of sexy shrink Magdalena Sanchez having steamy telephone conversations with reputed Bloods gang member Demetrius Hill about their sex sessions at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn.

Sanchez, 35, copped to making a false statement, not the sexual abuse charge. She faces up to six months in jail.

"I was asked if I had a sexual relationship with the inmate and I said I had not, when in fact I had a sexual relationship with the inmate," she told Magistrate Ramon Reyes. "I knew I was not telling the truth."

Sanchez, who has a Ph.D. and worked for the NYPD before joining the Bureau of Prisons in 2005, is married to an investment banker and lives at Trump Place on the upper West Side. Her husband has not accompanied Sanchez to any court appearance since her arrest last April.

State Education Department records show that Sanchez's license to practice psychology has lapsed. She told the judge she is receiving "support therapy" from a doctor.

Hill, serving 20 years on gun-related charges, has sued the government on the grounds that he was sexually harassed by a male guard who demanded to be called "Peaches."

Her husband should have divorced her already. Remember there was a N.J. politician stated that Hispanic are promiscuous. If this is a part of Hispanic culture, I respect their culture then; but do it carefully. Do it with some sense of morality...so your name is not ending up in the Daily News. In the past a few days, all the crimes related to sex, rape and s o d o m y are almost committed by people who are coming from Hispanic origin. Just read the Daily News in the past a few days, and you will see what I mean. Nothing racial!

Shrink accused of practicing sexual healing with gang inmate rejects deal

BY JOHN MARZULLI
DAILY NEWS STAFF WRITER

12/14/2007 11:58 AM EST

A sexy psychologist accused of having a jailhouse affair with a gang member strutted into court Friday in a miniskirt and go-go boots - and rejected a plea deal that would have avoided an embarrassing trial.

Magdalena Sanchez is charged with sexual abuse of the inmate and lying to federal investigators about the illicit affair that cost her a $70,000-a-year job at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn.

Sanchez, 35, who is married to an investment banker and lives at posh Trump Place on the upper West Side, faces up to five years in jail and loss of her psychology license, if convicted.

The terms of the plea deal were not disclosed, but by rejecting it, Sanchez showed she thinks the feds can't prove she gave improper therapy to troubled 29-year-old Bloods gang member Demetrius Hill.

The government's evidence includes recorded telephone conversations between the alleged lovers and prison logs. DNA swabs taken from Sanchez's office furniture tested negative for bodily fluids, court records show.

Sanchez and her lawyer huddled with prosecutor Sarah Coyne for 20 minutes before asking Judge Allyne Ross to set a trial date. Defense lawyer Loretta Lynch declined comment.

Hill is serving a 20-year sentence in federal prison on gun-related charges. He has sued the Bureau of Prisons, claiming he was sexually harassed by a male guard who demanded to be called "Peaches."

What's wrong with this picture ? As I see it , you have an over paid " * " having sex with an " ape " like " bro " at the taxpayers expense . I don't mind anyone having a little fun but why am I being asked to pay for it ? You know , my beloved , younger , bald-headed brother who lives in Charleston recently called me and aske me how I liked being back in New York . I suppose if I was black wearing a handkerchief around my face and doing time in a Brooklyn jail , getting laid by the shrink , I would probably like it better .

Jail workers not surprised by kiss-&-cell rap vs. shrink

BY KATHLEEN LUCADAMO and TINA MOORE
DAILY NEWS STAFF WRITERS

Posted Sunday, April 8th 2007, 4:00 AM

Co-workers of a jailhouse shrink charged with having sex with a federal prisoner in Brooklyn "were not surprised" by the allegations, an employee told the Daily News yesterday.

"It was apparent really quickly that things weren't working," said the employee of the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn.

The co-worker, who refused to identify herself, said she thought Magdalena Sanchez, 35, was "very intelligent" but that "people were not surprised" about the alleged affair.

"We were just surprised it took so long [for it to come out]," the woman said.

Sanchez, who lives in a posh Trump Place apartment and is married to a wealthy investment banker, has been charged with having sex with an inmate and lying to Justice Department investigators, court documents show.

"She falsely represented to a special agent ... that she had not had a sexual relationship with an inmate at the MDC," the court papers say.

The seductive shrink pleaded not guilty to charges and was released Friday on $100,000 bond. She faces up to five years in prison if convicted.

The illicit romp took place sometime between September 2005, when the beautiful psychologist began working at the federal prison, and February 2006, when she resigned, according to court papers.

It was not clear how the feds found out about the alleged affair, and authorities have not identified the inmate who had sex with the shrink.

Sanchez, who earned $70,000 a year at the jail, could not be reached yesterday for comment.

Her lawyer, former Brooklyn U.S. Attorney Loretta Lynch, did not return a call seeking comment.

Good Di ck over lots of money what should a girl do...This just shows all men one thing. You can work your A s s off to bring in that good good pay check but if your third leg doesn't swing right it will not matter how much you can provide the home, and those shopping sprees women want that Hard still up in them and if hubby isn't doing it right, they will go else where to find it.

Don't worry we have two more that where fired recently at mdc brooklyn. Shes not the only one. A 19 year veteran had sex with a female inmate a few months back and was fired. A female employee who worked in the recieving unit wrote letters and took pictures of her "private areas" along with having sex with a cadre inmate. As recent as 1 week ago a emt at the prison was bringing in perfume to female inmates. Daily news do your homework and lets make examples of the three people. Counselor Raines, Officer Hunter R+D, and Emt Solano. Thanks its obvious that money has nothing to do with happiness or commitment or anything,there is something deficient in her life if she had to have sex with an inmate or she could have a control complex. the whole thrill of doing the unforbidden, the unlawful, it was all about the thrill for her.too bad she be joining her little lover behind bars

SEX SHRINK

CHILLY: Prison sex shrink Magdalena Sanchez and cuckolded hubby Josh Spitz are not so lovey-dovey as the run errands yesterday.

By JANA WINTER, BRUCE FURMAN, STEFANIE COHEN and JEANE MacINTOSH

April 13, 2007 -- The mystery inmate who had a jailhouse affair with a stunning prison shrink is a violent, abusive, twice-convicted felon who is a member of the Bloods gang, The Post has learned

And psychologist Magdalena Sanchez kept her lover, Demetrius Hill, on suicide watch so they could have sex in private whenever she wanted, a source close to the case said yesterday.

"She kept him on suicide watch so she could have exclusive access to him," the source said.

Sanchez, 35, was indicted last week for allegedly having cellblock romps with Hill, 28, between September 2005 and February 2006 and lying about it.

She is out on bail and living on the Upper West Side with her hubby, finance whiz Josh Spitz.

Court records reveal that just weeks before authorities discovered the illicit affair between Sanchez and Hill, she wrote a Brooklyn federal judge pleading that Hill be sprung from prison.

She was trying to convince Judge Denis Hurley - who was about to sentence Hill for robbery and gun possession - that the four years Hill served before his conviction were "punishment enough for his acts."

"It would be a shame for someone like Demetrius to [be] robbed of the opportunity to have a 'normal' life," Sanchez said in the March 20, 2006, letter.

Hill, who was facing 85 years, was sentenced only to 20 years, but not because of Sanchez's efforts. Court records reveal his lawyer managed to get Hurley to throw out many of the charges on jurisdictional grounds.

Hill was moved to a federal prison in West Virginia.

He was arrested in February 2002 and charged with robbing Nassau County drug dealers with a BB gun and a .25-caliber pistol.

Convicted in February 2005, Hill - who had previously done time for attempted robbery - was awaiting sentencing at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn when he allegedly began his fling with Sanchez.

The pair could hook up easily because Hill was in a special "suicide cell," sources said.

"I saw her come in late at night. I know they were alone for many, many hours at a time, sometimes the whole night," recalled a retired officer, who said he was on duty when Sanchez made her house calls "She wore very tight, enticing clothes - like a tight, low-cut, short, red dress and very high heels that would click up and down the empty halls," he said. "She also wore pants so tight you can see what's in her pockets."

Several areas of the federal pen are camera-free, including the suicide cells, where Hill was sent after swallowing a razor blade in a purported attempt to kill himself, the ex-guard said.

While Hill was on suicide watch, he was put in a padded cell and stripped naked, with only a cover-up apron for clothing.

"They are watched 24 hours a day by a guard. But if a psychologist comes in - like Sanchez did - and says, 'I'd like to meet with my patient,' the guard has to go," the former guard said.

Court records describe Hill as a violent, uncontrollable inmate who throws feces and urine at guards.

"He was very violent - she tamed him," the ex-worker said.

Despite his proclivity for violence, Hill was regarded - even by prosecutors and his jailers - as extremely intelligent, court papers show. He represented himself during much of his robbery case, quoting Cicero and the Old Testament in his legal briefs.

Hill, described by a source as "charming enough to figure out how to seduce half the world," seems to have a thing for women who hold powerful prison positions, court records show.

Before Sanchez and between prison stints, he allegedly had an affair with a Nassau County correction officer, Cynthia Plummer, who allegedly provided the car for his robbery spree. Like Sanchez, Plummer was indicted for lying about her relationship with Hill and it cost her a $70,000-a-year job. The charges were later dropped.

Plummer yesterday denied knowing Hill.

Hill's mother, Ruth Crumpton, said yesterday she was "not surprised" to hear her son had a relationship with Sanchez.

"He is a Romeo," she told The Post as she made dinner in her Elmont, L.I., home. "He's "a very manipulative young man." Meanwhile, new details emerged about the inmate Sanchez allegedly seduced.

Demetrius Hill, 28, once threatened to kill his mother after she ratted on him, The Post has learned.

His mother, Ruth Crumpton, 45, told The Post that in 2002 she informed police Hill had falsely accused his younger brother of owning a gun that cops had found in their car in The Bronx. She told cops the gun was Hill's.

Crumpton, at her Elmont, L.I., home Friday, said Hill then called her, warning: "You thought you were going to get away with that, huh?' I'm going to blow your f-ing head off."

She got a three-year order of protection against him. But two weeks later, she offered to put up her home to get Hill out on bail on the gun charge.

"I will never not love him, but I will not tolerate his foolishness," Crumpton told The Post.

MY LITTLE TONY

SHRINK-SEX SON LIKE SOPRANO, MOM SAYS

By KIERAN CROWLEY, JEANE MacINTOSH and STEFANIE COHEN

Foxy prison psychologist Magdalena Sanchez.

April 14, 2007 -- The mother of a Long Island thug who had a jailhouse affair with his sexy, married shrink said the two are equally culpable for their antics - calling the psychologist a responsible adult and comparing her son to Tony Soprano.

"Remember the Sopranos - he loves his psychiatrist," Ruth Crumpton told The Post from her Elmont home when asked about her son Demetrius Hill's tryst with prison shrink Magdalena Sanchez.

"She should be more mature and responsible, but he too was charming," Crumpton said, but called her son a "manipulative . . . angry young man."

"I can believe he had a relationship with this woman and manipulated her into doing whatever," she said.

That said, she holds no ill will toward Sanchez, 35, who made a disgraced departure from Brooklyn's Metropolitan Detention Center in February 2006, a month after her tryst with Hill, 28, ended.

"I hope her career won't be totally ruined," she said. "All I can say to her is to get past it. It's not all her fault, it's not all his fault. You have to be responsible for your behavior. She's an adult."

In a strange twist to the sordid tale, court records reveal that the affair would never have occurred if a federal judge followed the advice of MDC warden Paul Laird, who warned that Hill was a problem inmate during his first stint at the jail.

Included among Hill's 20 incident reports from January 2003 until he transferred to a facility in Lewisburg, Pa., in July 2005, are claims that he interfered with security devices, threatened bodily harm, indecently exposed himself, engaged in a sexual act, committed assault and displayed "insolence toward staff and disruptive conduct."

(NB, in or out of jail)

Hill "jeopardized the safety of the staff inmates and the overall running of the institution," the report said.

Hill argued that he was too far from his lawyer and was transferred a month later.

Aside from the affair, Hill was also accused of harassing a paralegal who refused to work with him.

Hill, who spent much of his time at MDC on suicide watch, comes from a troubled past that began when he was born to Crumpton, a 16-year-old runaway.

According to court records, he was placed in foster care and endured years of physical abuse "perpetrated by Mrs. Hill [Crumpton] and her various boyfriends."

He was raised in an environment of "pure destitution" in homes "infested with rats and roaches."

In a recent letter to Crumpton, Hill lamented about their strained relationship.

"I guess it could be said you were my first heartbreak," he said in a hand-written, two-page letter dated March 19, 2007.

"Although unbroken, I'm in constant pain. I hate these pigs, I hate this life. I'm consumed by hate," he wrote. Isn't that the normal state of mind of all these dirty animals?

Re: Rich White Husband Cuckolded by His Dirty Sanchez With Jailed Coon

<http://www.newnation.vg/forums/newre...ote=1&p=200515> April 16, 2007 -- The psychologist who allegedly had a jailhouse fling with a "manipulative" young gang-banger argued in her doctoral thesis that Hispanic women traditionally are "submissive" to men - and that should change.

Magdalena Sanchez, a psychology graduate of the New School for Social Research, said in her 2003 dissertation that "fundamental changes in sex role stereotypes are necessary if Hispanic women's vulnerability to depression is to be reduced."

The paper, titled "Latinas' Experience with Depression," says, "historically, the roles of Latinas have been of self-sacrificing wives and mothers, and of subordination to men."

Sanchez's alleged boy toy, federal inmate Demetrius Hill, has a history of seducing women with powerful roles in prison.

Before meeting up with Sanchez, the Bloods gang member allegedly had an affair with a Nassau County correction officer.

Hill's mother has told The Post her son is a "manipulative, angry man" who once threatened to kill her.

That history of violence didn't keep Sanchez from having a five-month affair with Hill, authorities charged. She even wrote a glowing letter on behalf of her lover, recommending he be freed.

Sanchez was arrested and remains free on $100,000 bail.

The jailhouse shrink argued in her dissertation that, "Latinas are expected to show they care for their significant others . . . by putting others' needs before their own."

She said this self-subordination causes depression.

So far, the alleged affair apparently hasn't destroyed her marriage to Wall Street whiz Joshua Spitz.

The couple spent the weekend together in the city, and they continue to share their Upper West Side apartment in Trump Place.

And she appears to be placing the same value on marriage that she mentions in the thesis.

"These values are imposed by traditional Latino society (patriarchal) and the Catholic Church," she wrote, "and describe the Latina as self-sacrificing, virginal, respectful and dutiful following the model of the Virgin Mary."

"Among the Romans emancipation required but one effort. The slave, when made free, might mix with, without staining the blood of his master. But with us a second is necessary, unknown to history. When freed, he is to be removed beyond the reach of mixture." --Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIV, 1782. Dr. Puta Refuses Plea Bargain - Will Face Jury Trial

A sexy psychologist accused of having a jailhouse affair with a gang member strutted into court Friday in a miniskirt and go-go boots - and rejected a plea deal that would have avoided an embarrassing trial.

Magdalena Sanchez is charged with sexual abuse of the inmate and lying to federal investigators about the illicit affair that cost her a $70,000-a-year job at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn.

Sanchez, 35, who is married to an investment banker and lives at posh Trump Place on the upper West Side, faces up to five years in jail and loss of her psychology license, if convicted.

The terms of the plea deal were not disclosed, but by rejecting it, Sanchez showed she thinks the feds can't prove she gave improper therapy to troubled 29-year-old Bloods gang member Demetrius Hill.

The government's evidence includes recorded telephone conversations between the alleged lovers and prison logs. DNA swabs taken from Sanchez's office furniture tested negative for bodily fluids, court records show.

Sanchez and her lawyer huddled with prosecutor Sarah Coyne for 20 minutes before asking Judge Allyne Ross to set a trial date. Defense lawyer Loretta Lynch declined comment.

Hill is serving a 20-year sentence in federal prison on gun-related charges. He has sued the Bureau of Prisons, claiming he was sexually harassed by a male guard who demanded to be called "Peaches."

I lied about jailhouse sex, says shrink

A former prison psychologist who had sex romps with an inmate she was supposed to be treating Friday pleaded guilty to lying about them.

Federal prosecutors were ready to play tapes of sexy shrink Magdalena Sanchez having steamy telephone conversations with reputed Bloods gang member Demetrius Hill about their sex sessions at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn.

Sanchez, 35, copped to making a false statement, not the sexual abuse charge. She faces up to six months in jail.

"I was asked if I had a sexual relationship with the inmate and I said I had not, when in fact I had a sexual relationship with the inmate," she told Magistrate Ramon Reyes. "I knew I was not telling the truth."

Sanchez, who has a Ph.D. and worked for the NYPD before joining the Bureau of Prisons in 2005, is married to an investment banker and lives at Trump Place on the upper West Side. Her husband has not accompanied Sanchez to any court appearance since her arrest last April.

State Education Department records show that Sanchez's license to practice psychology has lapsed. She told the judge she is receiving "support therapy" from a doctor.

Hill, serving 20 years on gun-related charges, has sued the government on the grounds that he was sexually harassed by a male guard who demanded to be called "Peaches."

Inmate who had sex with prison psychologist files civil rights suit

BY JOHN MARZULLI

An inmate who had sex with a prison psychologist is suing federal prosecutors for intercepting their phone chats, the Daily News has learned.

Demetrius Hill, 29, contends that not only were his civil rights violated, but someone might think he consented to the monitoring - which would make him a rat.

"To be known in [Hill's] community or in the prison system as has having worked as an informant, has proved fatal(!)" Hill wrote in the complaint scrawled in longhand from a federal prison, where he is serving a 20-year sentence on gun-related charges.

The suit was filed in Long Island Federal Court - the same day ex-prison psychologist Magdalena Sanchez pleaded guilty this month in Brooklyn to lying about her sex romps with the inmate.

Sanchez, 35, is married, has a Ph.D. and worked for the NYPD before landing a job with the Bureau of Prisons. She admitted she lied to investigators when she originally denied having sex with the inmate.

Prosecutors came up empty for DNA evidence at the scene of the crime in Sanchez's office at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn, but were ready to play jailhouse tapes of the sexy shrink having steamy telephone conversations with Hill, a reputed Bloods gang member.

Hill denies having sex with Sanchez.
